

Our Pledge of Confidentiality

As prayer team members of the ministry of 4- Life we understand that we have no legal or ethical right to make public in any form, to any person(s), any information that may be shared or disclosed during any ministry session. We will not disclose what is revealed during a ministry session to any person including our family, friends or spouse. We understand that to do so is a violation of the individual's rights to privacy and a violation of Christian morals and godly behavior. We give our word and promise to keep private all information that is shared in any and all ministry sessions. The only exception would be for the purpose of discussing the information in a training setting at which time no names or specific information would be disclosed.

Should there be information shared that reveals that a child has been abused or harmed (who is still a child by age) or an elderly person is in present danger of abuse or harm, We will report this information to the appropriate legal authorities as mandated by our State.
